

---

---

“[W]hat we are looking for with the recovery of stubble is ... converting something that today is waste into a value-added product. [A]n economic benefit, but also a social, environmental benefit. For example, if we avoid the fly problem, we already have an important environmental benefit.”

---

